composed of a number of well-known successful business men of Indianapolis, has been in existence for over five years. The unparalleled success of this company has been mentioned in this paper before, and it may be safely said that it has been unequaled by any other company engaged in developing the oil fields of this State.

Oil Company

The Diamond Oil Company is not an experiment. It is being managed more economically and has paid its stockholders larger dividends than any other oil company in the State-i. e. over five times the amount of their original investment. The Diamond Company is now operating twenty (20) oil wells in Blackford and Wells counties, Indiana, near Montpeller, which have produced over a quarter of a million barrels of petroleum. The company has undeveloped territory of nearly four times the possibility of its present development, and is now drilling a num-

The Diamond

In order to pursue its policy of greater development, the Diamond Company has increased its capital stock to $500,000-$100,000 of which is preferred and $400,000 common stock, fully paid up, nonassesssable and nontaxable. As a special inducement to investors, the company offers the preferred stock at par, which is $100 per share. This stock pays the holder a guaranteed interest of 6 per cent. per annum. With each share of preferred stock the company gives to the investor one share of its common stock, which makes the entire offer to the investor an equivalent to a net income of 10 per cent. per annum on his investment. Judging from the successful experience in the past of the Diamond Company and of its proposed greater development in the near future, it may be safely asserted that the common stock will be at par value within a few months. Thus, insuring to the investor a much greater income on his money than 10 per cent. per annum. The company has recently issued a beautifully illustrated prospectus, giving all the details of its present and past work and intentions for the future, which will be mailed free or given to any one who writes or applies to the Diamond Oil Company, 358 South Meridian street, Indianapolis, Ind., or A.
